Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology

Dr. S. K. Kathalia, Professor

He had conducted online daily classes for the final year MBBS student during COVID times. These were conducted on WhatsApp group for more than 250 students wherein all facets of Obstetrics and Gynaecology from examination point of view and for generating interest as well were covered. The response of students was very encouraging and positive as shown, where some responses in the feedback have been recorded. There were many more positive responses also. A scientific paper in connection with this online teaching has been published. He has already started similar classes for the next batch and surprisingly their response has been better and more encouraging probably due to good work spread by previous batch.
